“ Uncle Danny you weren't just my uncle Danny but an Uncle to everyone in the neighborhood. I remember as you walked around town our friends would yell Hi Uncle Danny because everyone knew and loved you. Your free spirit and hilarious attitude will be sorley missed by many. I remember many things you taught me as well as my kids about music and I promise ill carry on that tradition with them, the great funny memories we all had with you will never be forgotten in my home, I promise.

“ Danny, your death has me on the biggest grief journey ever. I don't think you'd want me to stay in that dark spot. I'm going to push the anguish aside & replace it with the gazillion wonderful memories of you. Fly ezy now my brother. Your sisters are De Haan strong, we still have each other & we'll carry on your Memories & bizarre personality.

“ Dan had a creative side to him. He invented things like games and drinking paraphernalia. One or two of his best inventions was the drinking game Plugger. Now I know anyone can do a drinking game, but he added his quirkiness by using a chipped block of wood as a die. I was in college then and my brother Danny wanted me to play this game. I am not sure if this was premeditated with Dan or not but he seemed excited to get me to play. I think one of the activities was to shoot a beer in the beer bong cannon. This was his other quirky invention. It was not your pour it down the chute beer bong. They wanted to test my beer drinking college aptitude. That night I passed with flying colors (I think). We were young in our 20's partying then. However, I think Dan had an intelligence where he wanted to be challenged and motivated, not do it just because. I am going to miss him dearly. I would like to think he is up in heaven hanging out with my brother Danny and laughing with him and his mother. That's the memory I want to remember. My condolences to his sisters, family, and friends.

Thank you Tom that was such a great memory to share of Danny. He was always trying to create something that had his stamp on it. I know Danny and your brother are together in Heaven creating some type of drinking game. Their probably known as those two angel dudes with the awesome hair.

“ Danny you were the best brother ever. I will always miss your crazy sense of humor and your awesome grin. You were such a kind man with such a big heart. You were always willing to help others and share what ever you had just to make someone's life better. I was so lucky to have a beautiful brother like you and there won't be one day in my life that I won't miss you. I love you and will hold all of our memories close to my heart.

I'm still trying to wrap my head around this. He was a dear friend of mine and we messaged on facebook some. He was always so happy... or I guess that's how he seemed? He was one of a kind and is truly missed... so sad.
