“ My uncle Greg was a great uncle. He was always kindhearted and funny. He could always make any story funny and interesting. When we would have a reunion, there wouldn't be a dry eye in the place because all of them would be laughing so hard. My dad and his brothers had loudest laughs, us kids would hear it all the way outside while we played hide and seek. Family reunions were always a blast when the brothers would get together. The Tunstall reunions won't be the same without my dad, uncle Greg and uncle Phil. I know they're having a reunion up there together—catching up, telling their funny stories, and laughing.
