“ I remember Randy cooking country ribs on the grill after letting them marinade in his "special blend". They were some of the best I have ever had, and he got such happiness from seeing people enjoy his cooking. He really liked to provide good food for his friends and for anyone; and it made him smile to see people enjoying his creations. Randy was comfortable in himself, and ready to see the bright side in every situation. I imagine him looking down on us and telling us all not to worry so much.
